

A frame for the home-cinema designed by the company from Trento
THE NEW "PLANO" SCREEN
TOP-LEVEL LEVEL DESIGN AND VISIBILITY

The latest born within the Adeo group is called "Plano", a frame exclusively designed for the home-cinema sector. Distinctive features are: renewed outline, new design of the profile, with a particular angle shot of the inner profile allowing a optimal light reflection. Plano is a very interesting product having already obtained great success among experts.

Elegance and top-level technology

"Plano" is a frame completely "made in Adeo group", designed in the labs of the company and ready to be put on the international market.

The contrast relation of an image on the video was taken into consideration with particular care. The colour and the brightness of the screen frame can influence this relation and human eyes refer to the black of the frame in order to perceive the black of the images. The darker the frame, the richer the contrast perception of the image,

In the Home Theatre sector problems arise when the frame is illuminated by the light of the video-projector.

As a matter of fact, if the area of the frame illuminated by the projected image (overscan) is not perfectly black, there is a wrong/false contrast perception. For this reason the Adeo Group has realized a frame with inner angle sides (where the fake light of the overscan is to be found), so that light can be reflected towards the sides behind the screen, and not toward the audience or the screen itself.

The Adeo style: the greatest attention to details

Details have been taken into great consideration. The visible surface of the frame and the inner side of the angles are in black velvet, a material which completely absorbs light. Not only does “Plano” improve the contrast perception but it represents top-level technology and beauty as well as sheer functionality (for example the brackets for wall fitting are not visible and they have been designed as is the installation system of the curtain to obtain a perfect adherence to the wall).

“Plano” is available in all types of curtains manufactured by Adeo Group (from the standard white or smoke-grey curtains until the brand-new curtain named “grey”) with a maximum clear light of 3 metres at the base.
